To Whom It May Concern:

Solange Gonzalez worked as a baby nurse for our daughter, who is also our first child, for six weeks. She came highly recommended from Consuelo Sorzano, who heads The Baby Nurse NYC network of nurses.

Consuelo was with us for the first eight weeks and Solange took over for the last six weeks. Solange jumped right in where Consuelo left off. She did not disrupt the baby's routine, but rather enhanced it and helped us move forward with sleeping habits and interactive playtime. Solange played with the baby on the mat working on tummy time and she spent time talking with her always with the utmost patience and soothing voice.

Solange was a delight to have around our apartment, which is rather small. We never felt as though she was intruding as she is extremely polite, friendly and agreeable. When Solange left, we were so sad to see her go, but felt so lucky to have had her in our daughter's life during our first few months as new parents.

We would like to give Solange the utmost vote of confidence and a glowing recommendation to any parents looking for a baby nurse.

Sincerely,

Catherine & Joshua
